

leading the Seraphs (2-1, 1-0) to a Class B Central victory over the Garden Gulls (1-2, 0-1).
(A new species of gull?)

Each game is tough now, its winner
go home, said Manser.
(Uh, yeah, that is tough)

That play was wide open, said Serafino. One guy to beat, I had to sprint downfield, I wasn't looking back. I was getting to the pile on and win the game.
(Shouldn't he get to the end zone before he thinks about celebrating?)

a breakaway pass from Christine Mongelli in the 6th minute spelled deefat for Shore.
(It spelled something for sure ...)

Because I'm a tall pitcher, like Randy
Johnson, said Doherty of the 6-10
Arizona Diamondbacks left-hander, the 2001 Cy Young Award winner with the similar nickname of Bug Unit.
(Maybe he looked like a praying mantis?)

CLASSIC TONY TYPOS

I had a file I kept of Tonyisms that still takes up a spot in the Asbury Park Press
computer system.
These are some of the gems.

from Tony G: Red Bank Catholic.
*I like the disgusting sound of that.
(Dan Cichalski)*

Accomplishments: A 5-foot-9 guard, Herring has led his team to three straight victories. the longest winning streak for the Huskies since March 1996.
(mmm, I'm hungry now)

Pizzulli drove in a second run,
walking with the bass full.
(He's obviously thinking about fishing here)

with a four-four-four day including a three-run home run home
(that's some day at the plate)

David Hand scored on runs of 49
and two years.
*(This one drew a response from John Geiser: Karen: Caught your note on the two-year run. The guy must have started in Anchorage.
(GEISER, 10/13/02 20:37)*
